Lukus Rickelman is an Associate in the Firm's Litigation Practice Group, based in the Evansville, Indiana office. His practice spans both litigation and transactional matters.

Lukus's diverse practice allows him to provide clients with comprehensive legal support – from resolving disputes to drafting and reviewing contracts and agreements. This cross-disciplinary approach enables him to anticipate legal challenges and offer practical, strategic solutions.

Before entering the legal profession, Lukus worked as an embryologist and researcher, an experience that informs his analytical approach and attention to detail in every aspect of his practice. At the Firm, Lukus has worked on matters involving contract disputes, real estate, trademarks, environmental issues, personal injury, land and mineral matters, and acquisitions. He has drafted research memoranda, legal briefs, and assisted in depositions and mediations.

Outside the office, Lukus enjoys weightlifting, playing various sports, and watching professional and collegiate sports. He also enjoys playing guitar and spending time with his family and friends.
