Stephanie Weber is an Associate with the Business Law Practice group. She practices out of the Firm's office in Morgantown, West Virginia.

Research in business law, administrative law, health law litigation, and discovery are just a few of the areas Stephanie brings with her when helping clients. After finishing in the top six of her class in law school, her hard work and dedication to the law shines through.

Stephanie's will to work is unmatched. During law school, she worked as a class representative on the ethics council, was twice a Summer Associate at Jackson Kelly, worked as the Associate Editor, and Executive Publications Editor, of the West Virginia Law Review.

When not digging into research or work, she loves baking and cooking new recipes, spoiling her two cats, traveling with her family, watching documentaries, reading, playing piano, and taking walks.
